3.5 stars. A series of uplifting Christmas short stories published by Guidepost. I thoroughly enjoyed sprinkling these little stories in throughout the holidays. A nice little series.

I enjoyed these two volumes of A Cup Of Christmas Cheer put out by Guidedposts. I was sent the two volumes by Debbie Lynne Costello, author of the short story in volume 3, The Letter. Each story focused on a value we should have at Christmas time. Debbie's story was from the stories of Christmas past; from Savannah, GA in December, 1945. It's a story of reconciliation and acceptance of the people in our families that don't quite seem to fit in. I recommend these two volumes as great Christmas gifts. There are 16 short stories, all by different authors, in the two volumes. It's a great way to try out new authors and see if you want to read more of their books. Thanks, Debbie, for sending these books to me!

This two book set was such a pleasure to read. Each author created a story that helped me to relive Christmas over and over again. You can look forward to several totally different story lines in these two volumes. They are all short stories with huge messages of hope, love, faithfulness....the list goes on. I highly recommend A Cup of Christmas Cheer no matter what time of year it is. It is an accumulation of feel-good stories that will touch your heart and soul. I look forward to reading them again one day.

I'd like to thank Carrie Fancett Pagels for sending me my set of A Cup of Christmas Cheer, her story was one of the highlights of Volume 1. Even though these books were given to me, I was under no obligation to write a positive review.

I received A Cup of Christmas Cheer, Volume 3 from Debbie Lynne Costello as a gift - such wonderful heart-warming stories from the 8 authors involved - I loved it!!

In Debbie's story, "The Letter" - it is 1945 and the journalist husband of Jennifer Davis, Richard, was missing and presumed deceased 3 years prior. Jennifer has had no contact from her in-laws in those 3 years - her mother-in-law unhappy her son didn't marry the girl she had chosen for him and feeling Jennifer beneath her high-society standards. Yet, for the sake of Richard - who had always wanted Jennifer and his parents to reconcile - Jennifer decides that she and her children will spend the Christmas week at her in-laws house.

"The Letter" is a heart-warming story of family that will touch your heart and stir your emotions. A story of forgiveness and the realization that people/situations aren't always as we perceive them to be, a story with a wonderful unexpected ending.

Kudos to Debbie Lynn Costello on "The Letter" - an inspiring story of love!!

I enjoyed reading both 1 & 2 of these books for 2013. I won them in a site contest. One of the authors, Marilyn Turk, sent them to me. Her story, one about a lighthouse, was very enjoyable. "A Stranger's Visit to the Lighthouse" was a story from Guide Posts, where someone was helped by a washed ashore angel of sorts. I also enjoyed reading one by Johnnie Alexander Donley, whom I met through ACFW MBT.

Anita Draper's short story exemplifies the spirit of Christmas we all aspire to have. Despite our pasts, despite our misgivings, despite our selfishness, to extend the hand of hospitality and mercy to all who cross our paths is the kind of attitude protagonist Joan demonstrates. Need a story to relight your Christmas spirit? This is it.

I won these books as part of a goodreads giveaway. They were wonderful. Definitely feel good books. I'm sure I will read them again next Christmas although they could be read at any time.
