The Horror Authors' Carnival presents: The 13 Frights of Christmas

Christmas Won't Be The Same This Year when you gather for A Christmas Eve Dinner at the Breeze Place. Are you brave enough to Press Play and bear witness to The Santa Exorcism? Attempt to escape through The Christmas Window before Santa's Apprentice chooses you as the next victim of The Santa Baby Murders. Run through the winter cold and try not to get Frost Bitten knowing that Santa Clown is Coming For You. Be sure to be quiet and not make any noise because if you Jingle My Bells, you'll attract the wrong kind of attention. Before the night is over will you have saved yourself from a Heathen's Christmas or will you need to brave the dark again for another item on the Christmas Wish List?

Loved this anthology! Something totally different to the romantic Christmas stories out there and it was so refreshing!

There are some authors i had never read before so it was a great way to get to know them and actually one of my favourite stories was from such an author, Sean Kerr, i will be definitely checking out more books from him. Other stories i loved are Yolanda Olson's and Emery Leeann's, I've read those authors before and they never disappoint in drawing me in and keeping me hooked!

If you want an alternative Christmas story, then these ones are for you. Loved it and the fact that it is for Charity makes it even more a must read.

These are wicked holiday reads.

Definitely think of Santa and Christmas in a different light. Enjoyed each tale in this book and as always am left wanting more. Reading the tale of Frosty and elf on a shelf have to say I did chuckle and think of Frosty in a new way.

Great Collection

Great Collection of Christmas themed horror stories.

Some stories were not what I expected from it

.Can't wait to see what else these can come up with in the future!

This is an amazing anthology. I gobbled it right up. It has everything from devilish elves, evil kiddos, wicked Santas, a bloody workshop, window shopping, a nice hot dinner, holiday screams and even Christmas poems!

My top 3 favorites are Press Play by Yolanda Olson, A Santa Exorcism by S.E. Rise and The Christmas Window by Sean Kerr.

Omg

Love it yes it's creepy but it's amazing
Great storys all rolled up together.
Love them all
I do recommend this book and yes it's five stars for sure

What a fun, twisted set of stories - this isn't the Hallmark channel! A great break from all the sweet, romantic Christmas stories, this has a little something for everyone who enjoys horror. Putting this anthology right along the Christmas movies I watch, so I have a little break every year!

I actually hate to write this.

Obviously, everyone has their own opinions, styles, preferences, etc. But I read most of this book just wondering what I was reading. I don't know whether most of the stories are just not well written or if it's the fact that they are very cliche, over the top, and just strange.

Most of the stories, dare I say all, are simply gore/sex versus an actual story. The plots are non existent in place of shock, blood, and a lot of candy cane cocks (I honestly wish I was joking).

I love a good bloodfest and gore horror story. But I also would enjoy the story as well. I feel like the call for submission with this collection was the most unrealistic, strangest Christmas related idea you can imagine, also a demon, sexual Santa, or candy cane cock into it and send it to us. No editing or anything.

I honestly think this may be my first one star review and I hate to write it, but this collection was simply bad in my own personal opinion.

This anthology is horrorlicious. So much writing talent, wrapped up in one book, the stories and poems were original and a delight to read. I will be placing this e-book on my re-read list and fingers crossed that this one will become a paperback.

Loved these horror themed Christmas short stories! Christmas will never be the same....and you can bet I wanna sit on a certain Santa's lap....

---

Karen - Kazza's Books Blog and Reviews says

I loved it when authors come together and give us a delightful anthology especially of the horror kind. Christmas and Santa will never be the same again.

Very dark.

Definitely NOT for children. Or for adults who think original Grimm's tales are scary. Modern twists on classic themes.

Ellie Midwood says

For all of those readers who love their holiday season with a splatter of blood in it - you're in for a treat! I loved this collection and read it in one sitting. Yolanda Olson and her hellish Elf, Virginia Johnson and her vampire Santa, Sean Kerr and his designer Christmas chair made of some very special leather - I can go on and on but I better leave it to you to discover all of these Frights on your own and get the best dark Christmas shivers while reading it. All of the authors nailed it! Fabulous job!

Katrina Haynes says

This book was so good even though I read it after Christmas. I had some great short stories by different authors.

A very Horror Christmas.....

Press Play by Yolanda Olson 4?

Wow! I'm laughing after reading this story. It's just like Yolanda, to make a Christmas story creepy and hilarious, all at the same time. Naughty list be damned.

Santa's Apprentice by Emery Leeann 3+?

It's crazy to think of Santa, like that. And to ask for help, but don't know the outcome.

Heathen's Christmas by Virginia Johnson 3?

Christmas with a bite. Very bloody and a little naughty.

Santa's Exorcism by S.E. Rise 4?

The real meaning of Christmas in a new light, with some wicked kids.

The Santa Baby Murders by B. B. Blaque 4?

This title had me singing. This story was a little strange and sad. Everyone wants a Christmas sometimes.

The Christmas Window by Sean Kerr 3?

A story of true fashion, fantastic taste, and crazy people who are obsessed with keeping a little extra for themselves.

Christmas Poems by Steven Evans 4?

All the poems, was cute.

Breeze Place by William Joseph 4?

A good read. Keeps you interested and wanting more at the end.

A Christmas Eve Dinner by Sian B. Claven 3?

A very sad quick novella. It's a story of happy family routines, that end tragic.

Frost Bitten by J.T. Lozano 5?

Wow, what a story. A fight to the finish and a take no prisoners, read. This story is funny and it makes you think what happens while your sleeping.

All the stories in this anthology is funny with creepy and crazy for extra effect.
