But Not Formidable: A Clint Wolf Novel BJ Bourg

It's a warm September afternoon in the sleepy town of Mechant Loup, a tornado has just ripped through town, and Detective Clint Wolf is searching for a missing school teacher. Not only are details sketchy and witnesses nonexistent, but a formidable Category 4 hurricane is heading straight for the Louisiana coast--and it's threatening to erase every scintilla of evidence that might lead to the missing woman.

Even as the outer rain bands of the hurricane begin battering Mechant Loup, Clint makes a grisly discovery in the dead of night and suddenly realizes he's dealing with a cold-blooded killer--but that revelation leaves him with more questions than answers.

When the pieces of the investigative puzzle finally start falling into place, Clint will have to answer a question of his own--did he finally meet a suspect he couldn't take down?

BJ does not disappoint!

I again found myself not able to put this book down in the Clint Wolf series. I love the characters and the escape that he offers every time. I loved The setting and the weather. He made you feel like you were there. The characters are so real and you feel the love he has for writing in every book. Way to go BJ! Can't wait for the next book in the series.

Herman Morgan III says

A Must Read Series of Clint Wolf Mysteries.

This book is the last published in this excellent series of Mysteries starring Clint Wolf, Murder Detective. I have given a Four Star rating to the previous six Novels in the series. I'm giving this one 5 Stars, as it deserves. If you are a fan of Crime Novels, Murder Mysteries, or Cop stories, this bunch will grab your attention, and won't let go, until you reach the temporary last of this incredible series.
