Foetal Attraction Kathy Lette

Aussie Madeline Wolfe has left her home, her surfboard and her hemisphere for the new man in her life. Alexander Drake, indisputed King of the TV jungle, gives the best cunnilingus this side of a detachable shower nozzle. He's also the kind of bloke who goes through the Tunnel of Love holding his own hand. By the time Maddy discovers that it's not just Alex's feet but his entire body that's made of clay, she's taken a pregnancy test . . . and failed. Will Alex chicken out of his obligation to his egg?

Damian says

Oh God what an awful book. I picked it up when there was nothing left to read. I didn't expect much, maybe a few easy laughs, but what a horror of a book. Dull, repetitive and written in the style of daytime television thrown onto the page. Couldn't stand to keep reading. Avoid.

Casey Aldridge says

The story isn't too bad but the pun-rate is over the top. Can't help but feel that Kathy Lette is hitting me over the head with how clever she is to think up all these bon mots. Never mind that she has already used half of them in previous novels. Reasonable way to waste an afternoon

Sharon says

I like her writing and her jokes, but this was a depressing story.

Dodau says

I'm not really into chick lit but this was light and easy to read.

Louise Phillipson says

I loved it - so witty! But I guess you have to really appreciate the style of humour to enjoy it.

Tracy says

This was a fun laugh out loud read.

Barbara ★ says

The first 37 pages are rather funny but the remainder of the book sucks. It's bitch, bitch, bitch by the female character who is in love with a married man who claims he's going to leave his wife and kids but doesn't. Oh but she looooves him and wants him. blah, blah, blah

This is the first and last book I will read by this author.

Louise says

Pithy but pun-laden. Easy to read but didn't connect with the main character.

This was another of my Hay-on-Wye second-hand haul and I doubt I'll ever read anything from the same author. Just not my cup of tea.

Hanane says

It's supposed to be a humour book, but it's just an awful and ridiculous one, very poor story and boring style. I give one star since there's no zero stars option.

John says

Madeline Wolfe is a 29 year old woman who meets a man in London who is a TV presenter and meets all the A listers, such as they are, in Britain.

It is very much a product of its time. Lette spends most of her time talking about British society in a way that is likely to be completely mystifying to anyone under 40. You had to be there.

Kim Yates says

Was hoping for light summer reading but found this book very irritating. Especially the main character and her lover. I laughed at a couple of the puns only - mostly just cringed. Not my thing at all.

Albertine Davies says

This was just not really my thing. Finished it as quickly as I could to find out what happened. There were lots of clever puns but the characters didn't really draw me in and I didn't find it that funny.

di9girl says

Boring. Samey chicklit

Cheryl says

hilarious, especially if you read it at the same time of life !

Fiona Castelli says

Sooo funny for people prior giving birth. very funny and soo much detail. Good read.
