The Unseen University Cut-Out Book Terry Pratchett

A must-have accessory for the most dedicated Pratchett fans — a Discworld cut-out book for adults.

The phenomenal Discworld series has a new addition to its growing hoard of artifacts — a cut-out book for adults. An extraordinary feat of paper engineering, the cut-out book contains the makings of a detailed 3-D model of the Unseen University, Discworld's most ancient and complex building.

Colourful and intricate, this paper sculpture will provide hours of fun for the true Discworld aficionado.

Saleris says

Ok, as much as you can "read" a book of card shapes. I liked this because of the concept. It's not a "book". It's a large set of heavy paper with lovely drawings and a lot of engineering involved to make a reality of a literary concept. Wonderful!

Abigail Cantrell says

fun for little boys, too?

Heather says

One day, I will finish building this.....

Sam Drummond says

cool enjoyed being able to see up close part of ankh-morpork.

It's quite hard for me to rate this one, because it is exactly what it says it is – the idea is that you cut out each of the parts and build yourself your own scale model of the Unseen University. Unfortunately, I didn't want to ruin the book and so I didn't do it, although I did enjoy the accompanying text, though there isn't much of it and nothing worth buying the book for. No, you'll want the book for the model, which I must admit looks pretty cool in the finished pictures that I've seen – I'm just not convinced that I'd be able to make it, I'm too clumsy. I'd rather keep the book as a part of my collection, because it's unusual and a little cool – that's probably the main reason to buy it.

I don't know if 'read' is quite the right expression for this one... But I'm slowly putting the model together and so far it seems to be beautifully well planned out. It's just going to be a question of where and how to display it once I've finished!

Choo Ann says

Had a good time assembling the Unseen University model. Wanna give-away the whole model. Any takers?
