Kelly Robbins works in The Archives, mistress of the magical world's many hidden treasures and little known facts. But she has a secret herself, she's also a master thief – her magical powers giving her stealth and a preternatural edge in the art of robbery. Matthias Kestell is a Tracker, able to sense and distinguish between everyone's different, personal magical signature and follow whomever he chooses. When he stumbles across Kelly, he is bewitched and seduced, instantly smitten with her.

Drawn together with an electric chemistry that sizzles between them, Kelly and Matthias join forces to steal an important antidote to a magical drug that is poisoning the streets and killing innocent lives. Even though Kelly finds herself working now with the very people she avoided in the past, Matthias has a magical charm all his own, something she finds herself helplessly bound to and seduced by.

Heat burns between them, and the lines between who the hunter and hunted is burs. But by the time they both realise how lost they may be, will either one care?

Eva Millien says

The unit of humans and witches need to recruit another member to their team in this riveting and passionate Urban Seduction book. The author introduces a couple of new characters to the already captivating unit and begins another fascinating case for to keep them on their toes. This story was enjoyable and entertaining although I think the story was a little too short to do this couple justice.
