New World, New Mind: Changing the Way We Think to Save Our Future Robert Evan Ornstein

Human beings have always been the most adaptable creatures on the planet, and they should be able to chart a new course for themselves. Some of that charting is already being done. The old mind today is being challenged and changed by many scattered efforts. Can we bring these efforts together to produce a large-scale program for a rapid 'change-of-mind'? We know what the problem is. The 'solution' is not simple -- to generate the social and political will to move a program of conscious evolution to the top of the human agenda.

Having only recently shed my own narrow minded thinking - that the world as I know it is exactly as it has and always will be - and started to really see that the Earth and its ecosystems cannot support life if humans continue to live in this way, New World New Mind gave a voice and scientific background to what I have experienced - an epiphany of New Mind thinking. I think that everyone would benefit from reading this book and becoming more aware of our minds limitations. Reading it certainly helps to open the mind, which will in turn help us to make the world a better place and save it from ourselves.
