Kate Moretti's The Vanishing Year meets Kimberly Belle's The Marriage Lie in this twisty domestic suspense about a teenaged girl who disappears and is thought drowned--and the dark secrets she leaves behind.

Leah, a popular sixteen year old, is uncharacteristically apprehensive the night before her new school year begins. She decides to take a moonlight paddle at her divorced parents' Florida beachside inn to take the edge off her anxiety. Moments later she vanishes in the water without a trace. The police assume death by drowning since sharks had been sighted nearby earlier in the day. They do a cursory investigation and that's it. The community comes out to give support, but days later her mother Emily is still wondering what happened to her beautiful daughter. And why is there no body?

In the days that follow, Emily accidentally discovers pornographic images of her daughter on her laptop. Some appear to be selfies taken for someone else's pleasure. Others are clearly taken by a voyeur and sent to Leah. Shockingly, they reveal darkly tantalizing clues to an older man's involvement. Emily's heartbreak turns to deep rage as she sets out to unmask who this monster is who has stolen her daughter's innocence--and perhaps more. As her suspicion falls on various locals who, as unlikely as they may seem, may have lured Leah into risky, even deadly, behavior--the youth pastor, the long time resident in bungalow 3, his son who visits from New York--she trusts no one. Suddenly her once close knit community, itself its own paradise, has been invaded by evil, an evil that is still lurking in the shadows--one that she is determined to expose.

Jennifer says

I'll Be Watching You is the second book that author Courtney Cole has written under the pen name Courtney Evan Tate. I really enjoyed the first book, Such Dark Things. So I was very excited to get to read this latest suspense novel.

The book alternates between two POVs of a mother and daughter (36 year old Emmy and 15 year old Leah). The story takes place in the Florida Keys. And goes back and forth between two time periods (August/the present and June). Although the June time period goes forward in time.

Emmy runs an inn that belonged to her grandparents. She works a lot. Leah loves the ocean and her new dog Bo. Her best friends are Skye and Liam. Emmy's chapters are told in the 1st person. Leah's chapters are told in 3rd person.

In Leah's 3rd person chapters there are also a few snippets of other 3rd person POVs. I am not a fan of POVs switching mid-chapter.

Chapter one was actually very scary as something happens to Leah. But we don't find out the full story of what really happened that night till the end of the book (although I had my suspicions).

This book was super creepy. In Leah's chapters we find out that an older man had been pursuing her. But we don't know who it is.

The book was very interesting and I could not put it down. But at the same time the story was very disturbing and upsetting.

Some things I loved about this book: 1) Leah's dog Bo. 2) I loved the mom's investigations. 3) the beach setting. 4) the inn.

Overall, this was a good mystery. However, it's hard to say that this book was enjoyable as it deals with some unsettling subjects. Leah had many secrets and I enjoyed discovering them. I liked the way that the story was told. The ending was riveting.

Thanks to edelweiss and MIRA/HarperCollins for allowing me to read this book.
