Born and bred in her sweet little town of Devine, Taylor dreams of growing old with childhood best friend Tommy, but first she aspires to live an adventurous life in the heart of a great big city where no one knows her name and survive by writing until there are no words left to be written.

After Taylor runs out on Tommy in the middle of the night, he does everything he can to keep himself from stopping her. She has dreams and he knows if he wants to keep her heart, he has to respect that. With nothing left for him in Devine, Tommy does his own running, off to the military.

Five years after taking off, unexpected events like a stalker and family trouble sends Taylor running with her tail between her legs as fast as she can, best friend in tow, back to Devine. Waiting all those years for her knight in shining armor to show up, she eventually gave up and planned to stay away for good but being back in Devine, she finds that the one man she wants to avoid, is likely the only one who can keep her alive and sane...mostly.

Adrenaline runs high, passions re-ignite and true love is threatened by unknown stalkers, a hyped up celebrity courtier and a family who knows no boundaries.

Wendi Wilson says

This story had lots of twists and turns that kept me guessing til the very end. I loved the wit and southern charm imbued throughout the book. The characters were lovable and exasperating in turns. Good read!
