Barbara Hackel says

LOL Ivy Malone stole my heart way back when I met her in "Invisible." Older and independent, feisty and smart, she was everything I wanted to be when I grew older. She used her LOL invisibility (that's little old lady in case you were wondering) to go mostly unnoticed and solve mysteries. Along the way she met a special friend named "Mac" and after several books, they decided they were in love and wanted to get married. That is where this book begins.

A wedding at any age means planning and meeting the family. Ivy and Mac turned up at his son Dan's house in Montana, and no sooner had Ivy met the family but wife Melanie was planning the wedding details and their daughter Elle was planning adventures with Grandpa and Ivy. In the course of planning, Mac and Ivy go to see a local man Dan was friends with, who might want to sell his ranch. Finding the man dead at the bottom of the stairs is the beginning of a whirlwind of adventure including a real treasure hunt, getting shot at, pushed into a well, and more! It is an exciting mystery wrapped in another mystery.

You won't want to miss this first book of the new series especially if you have read the Ivy Malone series. Ms McCourtney's writing is face paced without rushing, and told alternately from Mac's viewpoint and Ivy's viewpoint. If you haven't read the first series, you owe it to yourself to read that in order to get the full background for this story. Besides all the back story, you will have buckets of giggles and laughs. You will also have a full appreciation for Ivy and all she is capable of doing, as well as meeting Mac throughout the series. I think you will appreciate this new series more with the information.

Loved it!

The Ivy Malone stories are always a treat. A fabulous mix of humor, mystery and faith. I would probably recommend mostly for women, but might be fun to read together as a couple. Looking forward to reading the next in the series.

Thank you, Lorena McCourtney, for giving us another adventure with Ivy Malone. And her fiance, Mac MacPherson, of course. I love this LOL (little old lady) and her zany curiosity gene that never fails to get her into trouble, if trouble doesn't find her first. I'm looking forward to many more in this series.

The writing was a bit choppy and I didn't like Mac's voice in his chapter. however, Mac and ivy together at last!

This was a joy to read. I'm an Ivy Malone fan and was so excited to see this new book. Mac & Ivy are finally tying the knot, but not without a dead body and a mystery to figure out. There's also a little chuckle about the LOL and her wedding attire at the end of the story. Looking to more Mac & Ivy tales.

LOL (little old lady), Ivy and Mac are finally getting married. This first book of the series picks up where the Ivy series left off. Of course there is a murder, Koop the cat, and more unusual characters. Oh yes, there is the search for the missing money from the D. B. Cooper skyjacking.

You must be writing about me LOL

Other than beeping in danger Ivy has my life. I would love to be able to travel all over the state's in a motorhome and have great adventures. Reading about Ivy and Mac makes me smile.

This is my favorite of Lorena McCartney's books featuring Ivy Malone. I enjoyed the humor, the eccentricities, and of course the mysteries. Loved the inclusion of a real-life mystery, about which I'd previously read news articles. (I won't give any spoilers.) That was a great touch. And I can personally attest to the fact that Ivy's adventures are good choices for mothers and daughters who like to read aloud to each other, and who enjoy quirky characters, clean reads, and happy endings.

I have loved the Ivy Malone series and am so glad that Ms. McCartney decided to continue the story line, even if a different series.

Mac and Ivy parted company and it was a sad day all around in the last book. But both realized how important the other was to them and unbeknownst to the other, set out to reunite. I don't believe it is a spoiler to tell you that they did!

They decide to get married, but the problem is where to live as both have sold their motor homes and Ivy sold her house. But there is a property close to Mac's son that should be up for sale soon, and it's perfect. Except for one thing. The owner died before an offer could be made. And Mac and Ivy think it's a bit suspicious when there are two other couples interested in buying the property from the never-before-heard-of stepdaughter who appears right after the body was found.

I love that Ivy, although very curious, is unlike other female protagonists and is sensible enough to not go traipsing off by herself when it is clear to the reader that danger lurks. I think that is part of what draws me to Ivy - her maturity keeps her from doing really stupid things.

Because this is a cozy mystery, I don't think it's bad to tell you that all turns out well, although not quite in the way you might have expected. I look forward to the next Mac 'n' Ivy Mystery.
