Another great pop-up book by Robert Sabuda. I felt as if I was in a winter wonderland with all the animals from the the forest. This book gives the opportunity to talk about winter and what certain animals do during that time.

With the same title as one of my favorite Shakespeare plays, I loved this book before I ever opened it. This pop-ups in this nature themed book are all in white. The story ends with a musical display. It is a beautiful book that reminds me of Susan Jeffers' Stopping by Woods on a Snowy Evening and makes me yearn for a stroll through the forest on a winter's day.

Angela Brocato-Skaggs says

Coolest book ever. Roby Elementary exceptional child class.

Alexandrea Howard says

This was an amazing Book! All the pop-ups are BEAUTIFUL and AMAZING. I went thru the book a few times before I 'discovered' the flaps on the sides. With very few words the author is so expressive and told a beautiful story about winter!
I think this book would be great to teach about what animals do in the winter. It only gives a brief introduction into the life of animals in the winter but it could be used as an introduction into that topic.
This book is a concept picture book.

If you are not familiar with Robert Sabuda.... you are really missing out! My dear friend Nanette just gave me this magical gift. While the story is BEYOND simplistic.... that is not the reason for the book. The pop up images done in white card stock are simply mnystifying and are beyond complex! As I looked at it.... I thought how cool it would be to walk through this wintr wonderland if I were small enough! Go figure and I am not even on mind altering substances!

If you've never experienced a Robert Sabuda pop-up book, get your hands on one today! This is a beautiful display of ingenuity with a great story woven in. I've shared this with all elementary grades and intakes of breath from the first page to last from the students is something I'll never forget. Beautiful!

This is a beautiful book about winter. Grades k-5. I would allow students to read/ look at this book during quite reading time.

Ryn (Crafty_Bookworm) says

Beautiful paper crafting and a lovely story perfect for reading all winter long.

Nathalie says

Wow! The most gorgeous and stunning pop-up book I have ever seen!

Amy Cheng says

Robert Sabuda's pop up book is so beautiful, how can you miss it?!

Sonja says

I read this book every time we go to our favorite B&B in Eureka Springs Arkansas.

Jesse says

Beautiful paper art! Sabuda's works always blow me away.

Margaret Klein says

What a magical book. I am slowly building a collection of all of these and can't wait to add this to my physical shelf!
