It's good to see that the story took a turn and now in this volume we get to now more about Zatch and his past. I really enjoyed reading this volume and it will be interesting to find out how everything will go after their visit to England. Oh yeah and it was very funny to see Kiyo struggle at the beginning to keep all the promises he made to his friends. It was also very funny to read how the author tried to wash his hands with diet coke to see if it was really without sugar. :D Good volume indeed and Baltro is so cute! ^^

Hannah Belyea says

Rumours of a mamodo that looks almost exactly like Zatch has him and Kiyo heading off to England to seek out the truth - only to learn that Kiyo's father has been kidnapped by competitors! Raiku ramps up the tension and suspense with this entertaining entry. What can Kiyo do when his own family is at stake?!

Nicola Mansfield says

Last volume ended with Kiyo discovering someone had been kidnapped and this volume contains his whole quest to rescue that person. A bit like a video game level where one enters the castle, defeats the various traps and then beats the boss. Pure action and lots of fun. Afterwards, they travel to where Zatch was originally found and he gets a tiny bit of his memory back and we gain a slightly better understanding of the sightings that have been reported of someone looking like Zatch. This story is keeping it's momentum and the new mamodo's are always fresh and exciting. Looking forward to the next volume and calling out to VIZ again to think about adding this series to their digital library. It deserves to be available!

Real rating: Infinity stars! It's THAT good.

Expect spoilers since this is my fandom. This book gives me feels on every range of the feel spectrum.

Gash is SO kawaii playing with Vulcan. Noguchi is that weird kid who thinks he knows Kiyo although he doesn't...Kiyo grew up so much that he can spend time with friends and that's cool that he can have fun.

Where'd they get that dino suit for Zatch? I love Zatch's misbehavior in England! "That other guy's your real dad, isn't he?" I didn't expect Zatch to freak out when Seitaro-san was kidnapped, but I guess I should have. I like the castle. What? I like a castle that an evil mamodo controls? Yeah...your point? I mean that I like the things they have to get through to get to the castle-obstacles, of a sort. Like the knights and swords and pit and boulder. I like it better in the anime when Folgore's with them, but yeah. I love how Kory protected Zatch's book and that's how they could win. Typical Seitaro when he was really focused on just teaching that class, which shows he would be a good teacher since he actually cares about the knowledge. And I like the cook, especially when he's chucking rocks at Steng. Why would Zeno bother kidnapping Zatch's dad? That's so roundabout for him. I guess he expected Baltro to be able to beat Zatch-which didn't happen. Na ha Zeon you wasted your time. I don't know why Baltro took HIS book back but didn't bother taking away Kiyo's to burn it. I wish it showed Zeon and Dufaux when they burnt Baltro's book...Zatch is afraid of snakes! I don't know why; they're kawaii and I've hugged one before (adventures of a vegetarian pt. .5). Professor Dartagnian is weird but funny and he appears more in the anime which is cool, like kidnapping mamodos and cosplaying Megumi, etc. "It's not nice to make fun of what other people choose to wear!" I wonder why Zatch's book glows golden. That makes sense since the literal Japanese title means Golden Gash. In the anime (which messed up things so you can't trust it) it says that it was since Zeno was trying to take AWAY his memory. But that makes no sense since Zatch remembered the forest, which is where he landed in the human world and lived for a while. I know later on in the manga Zatch's book glows golden when everyone in the mamodo world lends him their power against Clear Note (Clear is EVIL! I HATE HIM!) and this situation has nothing to do with that, so I don't really know why it glowed...But Zatch DID finally unlock Bao. Don't worry, Zatch gets back his memories after he defeats Zeno in the Faudo arc. You might think that Zeno has no reason to do that to Zatch but his backstory is while Zatch lived with commoners and played around (they're twins) Zeno as son of the current king had to painfully train. On top of that, Zatch got into the battle and inherited the Bao which Zeno thought was his right since that's how the current king won his battle-just like Gash eventually! Dartagnian the spy although he doesn't understand anything hopefully. It's funny how Zeno thinks that he can stand on trees and stuff. One day, he'll fall.
