Catherine Stine says

Meg is a tennis freak, and is quite disciplined about practicing her game. She has a sure shot at making it to varsity if she keeps up her game. But there are undeniable and continual distractions! One of these is her main squeeze, Ash, a dreamy and sweet guy who she's sure is on the verge of blurting out the L word--love you!

Noah Turner, a super confident and outgoing ace player is even more of a distraction because he won't leave Meg alone after never giving her the time of day before. Does he really like her, or is he angling to mess up her game? Meg has her mind made up to ignore him and remain faithful to Ash--that is until Noah sidles up to her with his handsome eyes and undeniable charm.

Grayson, her best friend, and tennis buddy, is getting fed up with all of Meg's male distractions because Meg has promised Gray she'll spend the rest of her precious free time helping Gray up her game. Without Meg's help, Gray doesn't have a shot at varsity.

Will Grayson make the team? Will Ash ever tell Meg he loves her? Or will Meg choose Noah over Ash after all? I like that this story has a sporty element that raises it above the typical YA romance. The twists and turns will leave you breathless--in a good way--and looking forward to the sequel.

Love All - This was a very fast and entertaining read. The characters are easy to connect with and the romance and "teen" issues are true to life without being overly drama'd up. This was book one in the series and I can't wait to see what is in store next.

This is a fun, easy to read story. It's a novella so it is also a very quick read. It kind of ends abruptly... so I guess the next book could really be the same book - the first chapter of the next book is at the end - you'll get what I mean when you read it.

L.M. Preston says

Boy was this a believable love triangle. Meg had a great guy, a really good boyfriend but here comes another hottie whose interested in her. What is a girl to do?

Medeia Sharif says

Meg is a competitive and strong tennis player who wants to spend time with her best friend, Grayson, who needs help in tennis. Currently a love triangle is proving to be a great distraction. Meg is with Ash, but Noah won't leave her alone. Both boys are gorgeous and have great qualities. This novella is a great beginning of a teen romance story.

I don't usually read novellas so this was a refreshing and quick read. I found it a tad hard to relate to Meg and her personal situation between boyfriend and old crush but that could have just been a personal thing. Overall, I think Hashway has a really great voice (loved it!) and I'm a sucker for sports movies and books. I think pacing is something one has to be very careful with in a novella. It's so short that we need a sort of climactic moment as well as a resolution. I think Hashway wrapped it up pretty neatly and really followed an interesting plot arc in this small amount of space. Oh and the boys definitely sound swoon worthy!

Beth Fred says

This is a really cute short story. What I love about it is it's a love triangle, and I could never decide which guy I was rooting for. One minute I wanted her with Ash and the next I wanted her with Noah. Once the action takes off it's full of suspense. I'm ready for Heartbreak Advantage!

I want to thank the author, Kelly Hashway, for providing me with a copy of this novella to read and review. Obtaining this book for free has in no way influenced my review or opinion.

Blurb from Goodreads:

Seventeen-year-old Meg Flannigan wasn't very lucky at love. In sophomore year, her idiotic boyfriend dumped her by making out with another girl in front of her locker. Ouch! Now a senior, and with a little more self-confidence, Meg catches the eye of not one, but two guys at school. Lucky! Both attend her tennis matches, vie for her attention, and are each gorgeous in their own way. So what's the problem? Meg has already chosen one of them, and the one waiting in the sidelines will do anything to change her mind. She's enjoys the attention right up until it's her heart that's caught in the middle, and she risks losing both. Can Meg Love All, or will choosing be her undoing?

I have to say that I don't read much contemporary romance, so I'm always intrigued to see how the hash out.

Meg is a relatable and authentic character. She is easy to understand and certainly stands out as your typical teen torn between two boys. I love her willingness to follow her heart, but her understanding that sometimes you need to think with your head. I can't imagine being a teen and having to be caught in a love triangle. She plays well with both the boy who is safe and the one who pulls her away to be a rebel.

Asher or Noah? It's a hard choice. They both have such great qualities. Handsome, strong, athletic. But one is popular and can help Meg achieve that same status, be something she has always wanted to know, while the other is not.

I have read Hashway's Touch of Death and was very impressed with the writing. Same goes for this novella. It flows well. Her plot is easy to understand. She has great character description.

I am looking forward to reading more from this series. It really took me into the world of high-school and all the "junk" that comes along with it.

4 out of 5 stars.

Tyler Jolley says

Kelly Hashway proves that she cannot only write excellent YA zombie, necromancer, sci-fi books, but also love themes in Love All. Hashway blends love and sports in this three part series.

Meg Flannigan is a tennis player in committed relationship with her boyfriend Asher. He's a great boyfriend and on the verge of using the "L" word. Days before her senior year is to start another boy on her tennis team, Noah, starts to take notice of her. She's had a crush on him for two years. He starts sending her mixed signals and she's starts to wonder if he's interested in more than just being friends. She can't help herself and keeps hanging out with Noah and the next thing she knows her relationship is on the line.

Meg is truly conflicted and you find yourself empathizing with her. This is a very quick ready, and the best part is all three parts are to be released this year so you won't have to wait too long to see what happens next. I give this book five out of five donuts.

Katie Carroll says

Love All by Kelly Hashway is a great start to the Game Set Match Heartbreak series. The tennis scenes were so well-written, but the real standout in this novella was the characters. Meg is an authentic character in so many ways. Her conflicting feelings over two swoon-worthy boys was totally relatable. Asher or Noah? Well, I know who I would pick. I can't wait to read the rest of this series to find out who Megs picks!

Shannon Duffy says

This book was so fun. Fun to live in Meg's head through all of the drama that goes on in this quick, enjoyable read. I felt every emotion right along with her and rooted for her in the big tennis match. Mostly, I really like Ash and want Noah to go away lol. Can't wait for the second instalment of this series. Bring it on!
