The Petal Fairies have a very important job - together with their magic petals they help to make sure that flowers grow and bloom in the human world. But after Jack Frost sent his goblins to steal the magic petals in the hope they would help to grow flowers in his cold and dreary ice castle, the petals have ended up scattered in the human world. Rachel and Kirsty must help the Tia the Tulip Fairy, Pippa the Poppy Fairy, Louise the Lily Fairy, Charlotte the Sunflower Fairy, Olivia the Orchid Fairy, Danielle the Daisy Fairy and Ella the Rose Fairy to find their magic petals before the goblins get their hands on them. But this time Jack Frost has given the goblins a wand to help them - he's determined to get those petals before the fairies do, whatever it takes! Can Rachel and Kirsty help find the daisy petal for Danielle?

While this is #6 in the "Petal Fairies" series, it was only #2 for my daughter and me. The plot is exactly the same as the previous one, and the climax was hardly as exciting. I think there are something like 24 books in this whole series--maybe even more. I think I'm in for some monotonous nightly reading, but at least my five-year-old daughter loves them!

Cecelia says

Rachel and Kristy are at Blossom Hall again and they go on a picnic. There they find Danielle the Daisy Fairy and they look for goblins. When they find them, they have the petal. Rachel and Kristy get turned into fairies and fly over to try to get the petal. It was on a rock. When the goblin made a hail stone storm only over the rock, one of the hail stones hit Danielle and she lost her wand. Then, they see a girl who says they can help to get the petal and the wand. The girl's name is Rebecca. She was super excited to meet a real fairy, but it was supposed to be Rachel and Kristy's secret. Rebecca takes out an umbrella from her backpack and covers the fairies. Rachel, Kristy and Danielle fly over to grab the wand and the petal. They get it and Danielle turns Rachel and Kristy back into girls now that she has her wand.

Book six in the The Petal Fairies series by the group of authors who call themselves Daisy Meadows. Their books are so formulaic, no wonder they've churned out more than a hundred of them. But our oldest loves them and gets more and more at the library every time. She's averaging one every day or every other day, so it'll still take many months before she exhausts the selections.

We finished this last night and started in on Ella the Rose right away which we also finished in the same sitting. Danielle the daisy follows along the same lines as the others which a special surprise towards the end in the form of Rebecca, a girl who happens along and comes to their aid. Rebecca was a nice surprise and change to the story.

I've said it before and I'll say it again, with so many seven book series it's amazing that the authors were able to get them unique. That being said, reading them in a row, as we have been doing, can start to grate on the nerves.

We're going to continue reading the Fairy books but from now on it'll be one series at a time with breaks in between. Fourteen books in a row is just too much for Mommy. :-)

As a Children's Librarian, I felt compelled to read this and expand my awareness of children's literature. I wasn't surprised by what I found - it's not terrible but there are far better options at this level.

Suzy says

My 2 year old loves me reading these books to her, she loves fairies. These books are for older than her but they make excellent rainy day books for me to read to her whilst cuddling up together on the sofa.

I finally read one title in this very popular series. It's a bit hard to imagine why they're so popular. We discussed them in our series Readers' Advisory meeting and agreed that from here readers can move to Disney Fairies and Rodda's Fairy Realm.
